STRATEGIC THINKING

1. Learner®

What Is Learner?

People with strong Learner talents constantly strive to learn and improve. The process of learning is just as important to them as the knowledge they gain. The steady and deliberate journey from ignorance to competence energises Learners. The thrill of learning new facts, beginning a new subject and mastering an important skill excites people with dominant Learner talents. Learning builds these people's confidence. Having Learner as a dominant theme does not necessarily motivate someone to become a subject-matter expert or strive for the respect that accompanies earning a professional or academic credential. The outcome of learning is less significant than the 'getting there'.

Why Your Learner Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalised based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Learner | Arranger | Achiever | Individualisation | Responsibility

By nature, you might place a high value on seeking and gathering specific kinds of information. Perhaps your need to be informed motivates you to acquire knowledge so you are as smart as you want to be about certain subjects.

Chances are good that you try to pay attention to what you do well. Occasionally you set out to broaden your knowledge in certain areas or sharpen specific skills. Maybe you are motivated to strive for excellence by using a particular talent. Perhaps you refuse to waste time, energy, or money correcting or fixing some of your limitations. Now and then, you aim to concentrate on what you do quite well. You may think this is a more challenging way to live.

Because of your strengths, you may adopt a more favorable outlook on life when you can identify the conditions that produced certain outcomes. Perhaps you need to know why something did or did not happen. You might be impelled to examine some of the details of specific events, processes, programs, or mechanisms.

Driven by your talents, you might get satisfaction from reading one book or publication from start to finish before beginning another. You might prefer to concentrate on just one topic, plot, or author at a time.

It's very likely that you sometimes can escape the tension, pressure, or stress of everyday life by reading a good book, diving into a publication's articles, or pulling up information on the Internet. You might take reading material with you on vacations, rest breaks at work, business trips, or tables for one at restaurants. You might occasionally dog-ear pages, underline key ideas, or scribble notes in the margins so your latest discoveries can be easily retrieved.

Develop expertise in areas that interest you the most.

- ☐ Regularly study new topics and skills. Challenge yourself to learn about complex ideas, programmes or experiences others might not want to explore.
- ☐ Refine how you develop your expertise. For example, you might learn best by beginning a new project; if so, find new tasks or projects to start. Or you might learn best by teaching; if so, find ways to present to others.

2. Arranger®

What Is Arranger?

Arrangers are conductors. When faced with a complex situation involving many factors, people with strong Arranger talents enjoy managing all of the variables, aligning and realigning them until they are sure they have arranged them in the most productive configuration possible. They are shining examples of effective flexibility, whether they are changing travel schedules at the last minute because they found a better fare or are mulling over just the right combination of people and resources to accomplish a new project. From the mundane to the complex, they are always looking for the perfect configuration.

Why Your Arranger Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalised based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Learner	Arranger	Achiever	Individualisation	Responsibility

Driven by your talents, you periodically use logic to coordinate your teammates' projects, plans, meeting agendas, or travel itineraries. You might decide who needs to be involved in a particular activity. To some degree, you can determine what supplies are needed by each person. Maybe you can position people or resources in the right place at the right time for the right reasons.

Because of your strengths, you are the team member who streamlines processes, rules, or procedures. You outline steps so all group members perform the same task the same way every time they do it.

By nature, you are not frustrated when a plan does not effortlessly come together. You can quickly adapt and find new efficiencies and resources.

Chances are good that you may be known as a hard worker. Even so, you might be willing to accept help from individuals who possess the talent, knowledge, and/or skills needed to overcome obstacles. Perhaps you resist the temptation to interfere in their efforts once they begin making progress.

It's very likely that you bring an exceptionally mature perspective to your team. Most people regard you as the dependable and reliable one.

EXECUTING

3. Achiever®

What Is Achiever?

Achievers have a constant need for attainment. They have an internal fire burning inside them. It pushes them to do and achieve more. People with strong Achiever talents feel as if every day starts at zero. By the end of the day, they must accomplish something meaningful to feel good about themselves. And 'every day' means every single day: workdays, weekends, public holidays and even holidays. If the day passes without some form of achievement, no matter how small, Achievers feel dissatisfied. After finishing a challenging project, they rarely seek a reward of a rest or an easy assignment. While they appreciate recognition for past achievements, their motivation lies in striving towards the next goal on the horizon.

Why Your Achiever Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalised based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Learner | Arranger | Achiever | Individualisation | Responsibility

Because of your strengths, you probably have a reputation for working many hours so your team, class, or workgroup can reach its goals.

Instinctively, you motivate your friends with your passion for moving ideas from the talking stage to the action stage. Your dedication to various projects rallies numerous individuals to work alongside you.

It's very likely that you push yourself to meet high standards and reach important goals. Your feelings of success or failure likely hinge on the way others judge your results. Your keen awareness of people's moods motivates you to work even harder. You want to please them. You want to earn their approval. You often just want to make them happy.

Driven by your talents, you periodically leap into the middle of difficult tasks. Perhaps you take over projects that must be done meticulously and accurately. Occasionally you feel you are the only person who can produce the right outcomes. Why? You likely set high standards of excellence for yourself and others. Often you trust only yourself to reach them.

Chances are good that you are a real stickler for completing work on schedule. You certainly dislike turning in assignments late or arriving at meetings after they have started.

ACHIEVER + INDIVIDUALISATION

You are more effective at completing a task when you can work in a manner that fits who you are as a person.

ACHIEVER + RESPONSIBILITY

You get things done — sometimes because it feels so good and sometimes because you promised someone you would.

Apply Your Achiever to Succeed

Use a scoring system to keep track of all achievements.

- ☐ Display metrics that matter in a place where you can see them often. The visual measurement of your productivity will encourage you to keep making progress towards your goals.
- ☐ Put personal achievements on your scoring system. This will help you direct your busy energy towards family and friends and work.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

4. Individualisation (Individualization)

What Is Individualisation?

People with strong Individualisation talents understand and are intrigued by others' unique qualities. Impatient with generalisations, they focus on the differences among individuals. They instinctively observe each person's style and motivation, how each thinks, and how each builds relationships. They keenly observe other people's strengths and draw out the best in each person. Their Individualisation talents help them build productive teams. While some search for the perfect team 'structure' or 'process', these employees know instinctively that the secret to great teams is casting by individual strengths – so that everyone can do a lot of what they already do well.

Why Your Individualisation Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalised based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Learner | Arranger | Achiever | Individualisation | Responsibility

Chances are good that you may generate numerous ways to enhance, upgrade, revise, correct, or revamp certain processes, action plans, or itineraries. Sometimes your suggestions influence how a project will unfold in the coming months, years, or decades. You might find fault with your own or another person's talents, skills, or knowledge. To some extent, fixing people or things ranks in the top half of your list of favorite activities.

Because of your strengths, you occasionally provide your teammates with a logical perspective on things. You might show your partners how one action or a single comment caused something unexpected to occur. Experience might be one of your best teachers. This partially explains why you do not automatically orchestrate an event, plan a schedule, or allocate resources the same way you did the last time. Maybe you realize that every situation is unique.

Driven by your talents, you may realize you can determine what distinguishes certain individuals from everyone else. Sometimes you use these insights to energize or inspire a person to do what needs to be done. Perhaps you honor the special, the wondrous, or the rare qualities of individuals. You might be able to position a few of them to attain even higher levels of excellence.

Instinctively, you may sense when a person requires your assistance. You might initiate conversations with timid individuals who struggle to express their thoughts or feelings. Occasionally you respond to people even before they state their needs. Some of them conclude you are caring and kind.

By nature, you might help visionaries discover ways they can work with people who concentrate on the past or the present. Rather than let differences separate them, you may point out areas where they share similar backgrounds, thinking styles, work styles, or interests. Perhaps you understand the loneliness forward-looking people can experience when listeners call their ideas “far-fetched,” “impractical,” or “ridiculous.” You occasionally show people how their unique traits complement each other.

Explain how different people can do their best work together.

- ☐ Support others in discovering and appreciating what they do best, and then encourage them to work on projects and tasks that let them be successful.
- ☐ Help people become more aware of others' unique needs. Because you naturally notice how an individual thinks and builds relationships, people will come to you for insights into other people's motivations and actions.

5. Responsibility®

What Is Responsibility?

People with strong Responsibility talents take psychological ownership of anything they commit to, whether it is large or small, and they feel emotionally bound to follow it through to completion. They keep their promises and honour their commitments. They don't let people down, and they work very hard to fulfil all of their responsibilities and keep their word.

Why Your Responsibility Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalised based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Learner | Arranger | Achiever | Individualisation | Responsibility

It's very likely that you are quite capable of putting objects, files, the steps of a process, or the parts of a program in their proper order. Frequently you double check your work just to reassure yourself that everything is in its place and every detail is accurate.

Driven by your talents, you usually conduct one final check because you have a natural attention to detail and a desire to eliminate careless errors.

Chances are good that you might be intent on always doing things right. As a result, you may invent better ways to tackle assignments, studies, or chores. Perhaps you make small yet necessary upgrades to enhance the efficiency and overall performance of particular processes or individuals.

Instinctively, you may enjoy hearing people describe you as more serious than some of your colleagues, classmates, teammates, friends, or coworkers.

Because of your strengths, you sometimes are viewed as the most adult-like, upstanding, or reliable person on the team. Why? You might orchestrate the group's activities better than some of your teammates. As a result, they may count on you to lay out the steps of an action plan. Maybe they expect you to acquire materials, raise funds, coordinate schedules, or distribute supplies at the right time. Maybe they allow you to redirect their energies when distractions pull them off course.
